ON SECOND THOUGHT.

What Labor Leaders Have to Say About the Exposition Muddle.

STILL AFTER PRESIDENT MARVIN.

They Never Meant to Boycott the Exposition, but Want a Change.

DIRECTOR HERBST DEPENDS THE SHOW

The resolutions adopted by the Trades Council on Saturday night suggesting that S. S. Marvin be requested to resign the Presidency of the Exposition Society, have caused considerable surprise. The labor troubles in Mr. Marvin's big bakery have frequently brought his name up in meetings of labor unions, and there have been some quiet threats that a boycott on the Exposition might be instituted because a nonunion brass band was employed by President Marvin and his Board of Directors for the show. But it was not generally believed that the matter would be carried as far as the Trades Council took it on Saturday night. On account of the condition which the musical dispute has assumed the Council says it leaves it to the judgment of all union men to patronize the Exposition or not, as they may individually see fit.

DIRECTORS SIDE WITH MARVIN. A DISPATCH reporter vesterday tried to get at the bottom of the trouble, besides measuring the effect of the Trades Council's action. President Marvin himself will not be home for another week. He is in New York, awaiting the arrival of his son from Europe. One of the Exposition directors, D. C. Herbst, was found at the Exposition during the afternoon. When asked if he treat which nobody wants to miss. Marthought Mr. Marvin would resign his po- vin's self-rising pancake flour is for sale by sition, Mr. Herbst said:
"I do not know what Mr. Marvin may do, but I cannot think he will resign. If he thinks the public does not want him in the place he will step down and out, and we will follow him. When the people of Pittsburg begin to think somebody else can manage their show better than the present officers and directors, we will

QUIT WITHOUT ANY PARLEYING about it. I do not think the town could raise enough money to hire the 13 men now running the institution to again go through what they have in the past three years. Mr. of Frauenheim & Vilsack's Pittsburg beer, Marvin neglected his private business tor six months to attend to the erection of the Exposition building. It is not a pleasant feeling to any man to be asked to resign the leadership of an institution of this kind after he spent both time and money to build it up, but there is not a man on the board would not gladly retire if he had a

"Have you heard that there was talk of a boycott against the institution?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I have heard rumors of such talk," said Director Herbert, "but let those people do it. We don't care. If they want to drag the Exposition down into the mud let them do so. It will not burt us in the least. The directors have not, nor can they, realize one cent profit out of the institution, and even if it closed up, we will not lose anything. The Exposition was built to give the sons of poor people a technical educa-tion on the industries of Pittsburg. If the people want to pull down what we are building up, I do not think we will interfere. It any of the labor organizations have a grievance against Mr. Marvin, they should not try to take it out on the Exposition. He is only one officer, and not the whole show."

After the Trades Council originally de- Far and near this season, as being the nounced the employment of the Great West-ern Band at the Exposition because it had left the Musical Union, John Flannery, of the goods department. Knights of Labor, organized a new assembly he K. of L., into which the Great Wes ern Band was at once taken. On Saturday the Council handled Flannery without gloves for this move. To THE DISPATCH reporter yesterday Mr. Flannery said:

MR. FLANNERY'S STATEMENT.

"The Trades Council could not have those resolutions passed, if they submitted them to a vote of the local labor unions composing the organization. I think the action was a little irregular, as I had not been given a chance to explain my position. I have been in labor circles for years and never heard of a precedent for it. The men who adopted the resolutions do not know what they are doing. I do not want to hurt the Exposition, but there is probably a boodle element who are back of the matter. The Exposition people may worry over the matter and may think it will hurt them, but I do not think it will. The rank and file of organized labor in Allegheny county will take the matter up and the other side will be heard from. The respectable members of the Council opposed the measure, but the others rushed it through.

"I can say that the local assembly of musicians I organized is as straight as any in the city. There is not one organization in Pittsburg that some time or other has not taken in what are known as 'scabs.' The men I organized are the talent of the musical profession in Allegheny county. They make their living exclusively by the talent and this is the highest standard of their skill. The others are not professional mu-sicians, and for this reason the former men did not wish to associate with them. I think that personal animosity is at the bottom of the whole business." Joseph L. Evans, President of the Trades Council, said to the writer:

ALL AGAINST MARVIN.

There were one or two men in the couneil who talked of a boycott, but I do not think that such action will ever be taken. The Exposition is intended to benefit the working classes, and we should not cut our own noses off to spite our faces. In the resolutions it is left to a man's own judgment whether he will or will not patronize the institution. While we will not do anything against the Exposition, we will cer-tainly not 'let up' on the President until he steps down and out. He has antagonized union labor in every way, and we will fight ft out with him."

Calvin Wyatt, one of the most prominent delegates to the council, said: "I don't think the talk of a boycott will amount to much. The fight is not directed against the Exposition, but against Mr. Marvin. The latter is a well-known antagonist of union labor, and never lets a chance go by without giving it a crack. The resolution asking him to sign was mostly on this ac-count. We do not think the Exposition can be a thorough success with such a man at the head of it. Looking at it from a union standpoint, we caunot consistently boost such an institution, If Mr. Marvin is removed we would give it our hearty support and co-operation. We would like to see the Exposition a success, and I think I express the sentiments of the organization. The present man should certainly go and not retard the growth of the institution in any way. If he was out of the way I think the present musical trouble could settled in a few hours. The resolutions shout Mr. Marvin were almost unanimously

LET THE BAND PLAY. The leader of the Great Western Band. when asked if the members were all con-nected with the Knights of Labor, would only say, "I don't know. That is for them to find out. Manager Johnston said: "I am simply passenger on this boat. It would not be proper for me to say anything about the matter. It is a question for the board of

A reporter called upon Joseph Horne & Co., Fleishman & Co., J. Kaufmann & Bros., and Gusky's, some of the largest exhibitors at the Exposition. The members of those firms had not, in any case, read the resolutions of the Trades' Council. When thair tenor was explained, one and all declined to express any opinion, not considering it a matter with which they have anything to do. Mr. J. Kaufmann said: "As I mg as the band plays, it is all right." Mr. Feishman said he had his hands full with
